Dear Anne,

Gradually I reduce the accumulation of the three-week trip.

The last thing we've taken the time to do is take pictures. The place needs too much work and I've got stuff heaped around pending the day I have time (and then energy) to do something. If we do, we'll send.

Glad you caught the show with Jack.

The trip was like that, once I got out of the east. The book is not available in Washington, nor is in just a very few stores in New Orleans. Many places it cannot be had at all. This is called freedom of the press.

The subtitle of Tiger to Ride is The Untold Story of the Cuba-Miscela Crisis. Huff said for a few months.

Garrison is showing the wear and I feel it. Saw him in LA last week. He made an important and newsworthy speech that was suppressed. To keep me company, I guess, for UPI asked me to do an assassination piece. If it appeared a single place, I have not heard of it. More freedom of the press.

The new book, six seconds, is a real stinker intended to seem to be critical while it actually comes up with a formula to get the government off the hook. It has nothing new if it says error calculated to support a saleable speculation, to satisfy a natural yearning for positiveness.

Home O In NO reached you promptly. I'll mailed them before I left. In fact, I mailed several bags the night before I left.

Thanks for your kind wishes. Back to the grind.

Our best,
